DEAR FRIEND,

This was a groundbreaking year for St. Joseph's Villa and the RiseUP Campaign, and we are thrilled to share our progress in our third Campaign Investor Report. Your steadfast leadership and incredible generosity helped us reach a critical moment for our campaign – surpassing 78% of our $25 million comprehensive goal, and publicly launching our effort.

In June, along with investors, friends, community leaders, and partners, we celebrated the groundbreaking of our new Sarah Dooley Center for Autism, and kicked off the Public Phase of the RiseUP Campaign. Our K-2 students with autism led us in the Pledge of Allegiance which they had been practicing all year, and students from across the Villa’s programs joined Board members to wield the golden shovels. Thank you to the many of you who joined us to celebrate and sign the beam that will literally help support the building. Visit SJVRiseUP.org for weekly construction updates so you can follow along with our progress!

This month we’ll also begin construction of the new Youth Fitness Park, another priority of the Campaign. The fitness park will feature new equipment and a long-awaited outdoor basketball court. It’s our first space specifically designed to promote physical activity with our older students.

Our Sarah Dooley Center for Autism program will welcome 91 students in three buildings across campus this September. The need for our new Center is more urgent than ever, and we look forward to staying on track for a fall 2020 opening. To do this, the hard work continues, and we must raise the additional $500,000 left for the building by this fall. It’s going to be a critical year for the Villa and the RiseUP Campaign, but with you on our team, we can’t wait to see what we achieve.

Sincerely,

John B. “Jack” Catlett, Jr., Campaign Chair

Kathleen Burke Barrett, CEO

OUR $25 MILLION CAMPAIGN: CASE IN BRIEF

The Villa campus is one of our most powerful tools in helping children learn, grow, and heal. Preserving and improving it through the four priority areas of our RiseUP Campaign will raise our capacity for service and innovation to greater heights.

Autism Center
The number of students appearing on the autism spectrum is growing rapidly. Our new Sarah Dooley Center for Autism will serve as a training hub for teachers and professionals, and as a replicable model for public schools with their existing resources and infrastructure. Over time, the ripple effect of teacher trainings will touch tens of thousands of lives.

Capital Upgrades
Villa-wide capital improvements will bring a higher level of accessibility, customer service, and comfort for all children and families as we continue to grow our programs. Planned upgrades include a therapeutic Youth Fitness Park, critical repairs to our historic buildings, advanced operations technology, and efficient heating and cooling.

Current Funds
Everyone can succeed with the right tools and support. With 19 integrated programs, we are uniquely positioned to take a collaborative approach to serving the whole child and their family. Gifts to our New Day Fund make an immediate difference to individuals in every Villa program as they explore and realize their full potential.

Endowment
Increasing our Endowment will enable us to meet the rising demands for health and human services, and look beyond the immediate costs of programs to anticipate the needs of the future. The Endowment provides for the long-term financial stability for the Villa, especially in difficult economic times when those we serve need us most.

A BIG ANNOUNCEMENT FROM THE REYNOLDS FAMILY

The Reynolds Family has a legendary tradition and reputation of philanthropy throughout Greater Richmond, supporting a wide range of services that improve and enrich the lives of area residents.

As we neared the renovation of our autism center, the Reynolds Family came together to make a commitment that will forever elevate our campus. The Richard S. Reynolds and Virginia S. Reynolds Foundations collaborated for a combined $750,000 commitment that brought our comprehensive campaign total above $19 million. Campaign Chair, Jack Catlett, announced the gift to our family of Villa donors at our donor celebration on the eve of the groundbreaking.

This investment from the two foundations will lead to naming the new lobby in the Sarah Dooley Center for Autism in honor of their family’s legacy.

Generation upon generation, the Reynolds name has been identified in our community with the top organizations in the arts, health, education, and human services. We are honored to be in such company. Through the generosity of the Reynolds Family, more families can grow stronger at the Villa today and for many years to come.

THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT THE VILLA

Our culinary services provide 115K meals to students each year at no cost to families.

The Villa serves 57 Virginia localities. The Villa has been recognized with 18 local and national awards since our RiseUP campaign began in 2015.

We create brighter futures for 3,000 individuals each year.

This November, the Villa will celebrate 185 years of continuous service for children and families.

We’re transforming our Dooley School building into a cutting-edge Center for Autism.
THE VILLA’S PAST AND FUTURE OF PIONEERING EDUCATION

A Richmond Times-Dispatch feature article published on November 10, 1931 called St. Joseph’s Villa, “the finest orphanage in the world” with “services rarely seen in America.” As foster care programs and service agencies emerged in the 1960’s and 70’s, the Villa adapted to society’s changing needs and opened Dooley School to the community. The Villa has partnered with public schools for nearly half a century to provide specialized education and help students address individual academic, social, and behavioral challenges. In that time, public schools have also seen a sharp rise in the number of students diagnosed with autism—a rise of about 12% each year over the last decade according to the Virginia Department of Education. We look forward to this new chapter where we will transform the 24,000 sq. ft. building into a state-of-art center for autism.

We look forward to collaborating with the staff at St. Joseph’s Villa to breathe new life into this magnificent building, and transform the Sarah Dooley Center for Autism into a state-of-the-art facility that will have a gigantic positive impact on the well-being of many students.

Daniel & Company

Our new Sarah Dooley Center for Autism (SDCA) will meet the unique sensory needs of students through a combination of education, therapy, research, and community partnership. It is designed to achieve the behavioral and communications outcomes of an elite clinic while reaching the academic goals of a top school. The renovated building will house a Campus Center that will provide a flexible space where we will train up to 1,000 professionals each year.

Education strategies at SDCA are data-driven. Staff take more than 2 million data points a year on our students’ successes and educational outcomes, positioning our school to pilot innovative interventions with university and research partners.

SDCA’s primary goal is to help students successfully transition back to their public schools where they can be with their siblings and neighbors, and gain as much independence as possible to thrive in their communities.
